New Constitution.

The Central Missouri Republican, a newspaper published at Boonville by the mayor of the town, demands the framing and adoption of a new constitution for this state.

He is not along in the demand. Dur-ing the past 10 years the sentiment has He is not alone in the demand. Durbeen largely universal in favor of a new organic law. The present constitution adopted in 1875, in the midst of the most reckless incurrence of debts by counties and municipalities, was made so restric tive as to check up suddenly the progress of improvements and really enable the people to restore their public affairs to a normal condition.

But the state has grown enormously ince then. In fact, the population is nearly doubled, and counties and cities have no income with which to meet the decreasing demands upon their treas uries; moreover, the Constitution is so probabilize that the money absolutely necessary to the maintenance of county and city cannot be obtained from the axoayers, even in cases where the tax sayers are willing and anxious to pay. Roads cannot be improved or built; ourt houses cannot be erected; electric lights cannot be had, and other revenues of city and county are cut off by the constitution, leaving the people in darkness, in the ditches and in despuir. The present organic law was adopted BREAKE'AST—SUPPFR.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural law which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the flar properties of well selected Coena, Mr. Epphas provided for our breakfast and supper a delicately flavoure 1 beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is 1 the pure in the late of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist ever tendency to disease Hundreds of subtile malacies are floating around us ready to attack wereveer there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shalt by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold by about 75,000 majority, but the vote There has been an apprehension in many quarters that if the bars were once let down, interested persons and corporations would rush in and secure privileges which they could not other use obtain. But this is presuming on he incompetency or corruption of the delegates - an assumption altogether uncomplementary to the Republisan sys tem of government. There need be no fear on this point. A constitutional convention is a wide open body, composed as a rule of men of distinction and character, who can neither be bought not sold, and in whom the people may have confidence. In view, therefore, of the paramount secessity of a new constitution, the motion made by the Central Missouri Republican will have many seconds .- St. Louis Republic.

Missouri Agricultural Report. The Agricultural Report for this state for 1893, gives over one hundred counties in the state with their shipments of cattle, hogs, core and wheat, with all other products.

Nodaway county reports the highest number of Logs shipped, which was 70,-651, and Cass the next with 54,128. Holt reports 41,364 and New Madrid the least being 160.

The three largest wheat growing counties in the state are Carroll 1,005,671 and Mississippi with 1,045,400 Dunklin with 1,061,725. The shipment of wheat from fourteen of the largest wheat growing counties of the state aggregate 7,551,807. This is the amount of wheat shipped from fourteen counties of this state. From the above, if a person wished to engage in wheat raising it would be easy for him to select his locality.

This report also gives the amount of flour shipped from all the counties of the state. Seventeen counties shipped over 10,000,000 pounds each. They aggregate ever 504,000,000 pounds. Marion county shipped 51,220,000, Cape Giradeau; 56,258,802, and Greene;59,967,-000, and Henry; 61,762,495,

From these four counties 229,268,297 were shipped. Missouri gave shipments of apples that year but from three counties in the Senator Henry Cabot Lodge contrib utes to Harper's Magazine for January a vigorous article, entitled "Shakespeare's Americanism," which contains reassuring and comforting doctrine for those who employ colloquial forms of speech. The following passage is one of many that will be read with interest: "Among characteristic American word none is more so than 'to guess' in the sense of 'to think' One sees it continually in English comic papers and in books also, put into the mouths of Americans as a discreditable but unmistakable badge of nationality. Shakes peare uses the word constantly, gener ally in the stricter and narrower sense, so uses it in the broader American sense of thinking. For example, in Measure for Measure (Act iv., Scene iv), Angelo says, 'And why meet him at the gates, and redeliyer our authorities there?" To which Escalus replies, in a most emphatically American fashion, "I guess
